

BLOOMSBURG DEMOCRAT.

VOL. XXXI.

BLOOMSBURG, COLUMBIA CO., PA., WEDNESDAY, JULY 10, 1867.

NO. 19.

OFFICERS OF COLUMBIA CO.

President Judge—Hon. William Elwell.
Associate Judges—Peter K. Harbison, Proth'y and Clerk of Courts—Jesse Coleman.
Register and Recorder—John G. Freese.
Commissioners—Allen Mann,
John F. Fowler, (Montgomery Cole).
Sheriff—Samuel Snyder.
Treasurer—John J. Stiles.
Auditors—Daniel Sawyer,
L. B. Rupert,
John P. Hannon.
Commissioner's Clerk—Wm. Krickbaum.
Commissioner's Attorney—E. H. Little.
Mercantile Appraiser—Capt. Geo. W. Utz.
County Surveyor—Isaac A. Dewitt.
District Attorney—Nilton M. Traugh.
Coroner—William J. Heller.
County Superintendent—Chas. G. Barkley.
Assessors Internal Revenue—R. F. Clark, (John Thomas),
S. B. Diemer,
J. H. Heller,
J. S. Woods.
Assistant Assessor—J. H. Heller.
Collector—Benjamin F. Hartman.

NEW STOVE AND TIN SHOP.

ON MAIN STREET, NEARLY OPPOSITE MILLER'S STORE, BLOOMSBURG, PA.
The undersigned has just fitted up, and opened, his new
STOVE AND TIN SHOP.
In this place, where he is prepared to make up new TIN WARE of all kinds in his line, and do repairs with neatness and dispatch, upon the most reasonable terms. He also keeps on hand a large assortment of stoves, which he will sell at prices to suit purchasers.
Give him a call. He is a good mechanic, and deserving of the public patronage.
Bloomsb'g, Sept. 18, 1866.—J. J. METZ.

PLASTER FOR SALE.

The undersigned is about fitting up a

PLASTER MILL

at the PENN FURNACE MILLS, and will offer to the public ONE HUNDRED TONS LEST.
Novia Scotia White Plaster. prepared ready for use in quantities to suit purchasers, at any time from the first of March until October 1st, 1867.
Catawissa, Jan. 23, 1867.

BOOT AND SHOE SHOP.

OSCAR P. GILTON.
Respectfully informs the public that he is now prepared to manufacture all kinds of

BOOTS AND SHOES,

at the LOWEST Possible Price, at short notice and in the very best and latest style.
Mr. Gilton, (late of the U. S. Army, at Fort Mifflin, Pa.) has had many years of successful experience in the manufacture of boots and shoes, and is prepared to give satisfaction to all who patronize him.
Place of business on South East Corner of Main and Iron Streets, over J. K. GILTON'S STORE.
Bloomsb'g, Oct. 10, 1866.—G. W. MAUGER.

FORKS HOTEL.

GEORGE W. MAUGER, Proprietor.
The above well-known hotel has recently undergone radical changes in its internal arrangements, and its proprietor announces to his former guests and the traveling public that his accommodations for the comfort of his guests are second to none in the country. His table will always be found well stocked, and only with substantial food, but with the delicacies of the season. His wine and liquors (except that popular beverage, beer, which is purchased direct from the brewing houses, and is entirely pure, and free from all poisonous drugs.) He is thankful for a liberal patronage, and trusts he will continue to deserve it in the future.
June 12, 1866.—G. W. MAUGER.

MACHINE AND REPAIR SHOP.

The undersigned would most respectfully announce to the public generally, that he is prepared to execute all kinds of MACHINE and REPAIR work, and the traveling public that his accommodations
for the comfort of his guests are second to none in the country. His table will always be found well stocked, and only with substantial food, but with the delicacies of the season. His wine and liquors (except that popular beverage, beer, which is purchased direct from the brewing houses, and is entirely pure, and free from all poisonous drugs.) He is thankful for a liberal patronage, and trusts he will continue to deserve it in the future.
June 12, 1866.—G. W. MAUGER.

FAON HOUSE.

The subscriber having purchased the "Fallon House," in LOCK HAVEN, Pa., property of E. W. Bagnay, Esq., would say to the friends of the house, his accommodations, and the public generally, that he is prepared to give satisfaction to all who patronize him, and to the accommodations and comforts of a house, and humbly solicits their patronage.
J. OTTENEIRE.
Late of the Madison House, Philadelphia.
Lock Haven, Dec. 30, 1866.

MISS LIZZIE PETERMAN.

Would announce to the ladies of Bloomsburg and the public generally, that she has just received from the eastern cities her

Spring and Summer

MILLINERY GOODS,
consisting of all styles of hats, and first-class millinery goods. Her goods are of the best quality, and among the most fashionable and elegant in the market. Call and examine them for yourselves.
Hobbs should purchase elsewhere before examining Miss Peterman's stock of goods. Her goods are order, on the shortest notice, or repaired.
Store on Main street, 3d or 4th below the store of Mendenhall & Rogers.
Bloomsb'g, May 2, 1866.—L. P.

NEW TOBACCO STORE.

H. H. HUNSBARGER,
Main Street, below the "American House," BLOOMSBURG, PA.,
Where he keeps on hand, and furnishes to the home and country trade, at Philadelphia (lowest) prices, a

FINE CUT AND PLUG TOBACCO.

DOMESTIC AND IMPORTED CIGAR all kinds of SMOKING TOBACCO.
Sonne, Meerschaum and Bear Wood Pipes, and all articles pertaining to his trade.
These goods are of the best quality, and at low prices. He would do well to give him a call, in stead of sending to the cities for every article he needs, and thus saving the country people.
November 12, 1866.—H. H.

DRUGS, DRUGS, DRUGS.

Pure Medicines, at John R. Meyer's Drug Store, corner of Main and Market Streets. A good assortment of

PURE DRUGS.

Medicines, Paints, Oils and Varieties, always on hand, and will be sold cheaper than at any other Drug Store in town.

QUALITY GUARANTEED.

Prescriptions carefully compounded at Meyer's Drug Store.
Meyer and Jaynes Medicines sold at Meyer's Drug Store.
Wholesale and Retail, at Meyer's Drug Store.
For any reliable patent medicines, call at Meyer's Drug Store.
Corner of all kinds, wholesale and retail, at J. R.
Meyer's Drug Store, Bloomsburg, Pa.
May 2, 1866.—H. H.

THE

Bloomsb'g Democrat.

IS PUBLISHED EVERY WEDNESDAY IN BLOOMSBURG, PA., BY

WILLIAMSON H. JACOBY.

TERMS.—$2.00 in advance. If not paid within SIX MONTHS, 50 cents additional will be charged.
If the paper is discontinued until all arrearages are paid except at the option of the editor.

RATES OF ADVERTISING.

ONE LINE CONSTITUTE A SQUARE.

One square of three insertions.....$1.00
Every subsequent insertion less than 12.....50

SPACES.

One square, 1st 3.00 2d 2.00 3d 1.00 4th 1.00
Two squares, 1st 5.00 2d 3.00 3d 1.50 4th 1.50
Three squares, 1st 7.00 2d 4.00 3d 2.00 4th 2.00
Four squares, 1st 9.00 2d 5.00 3d 2.50 4th 2.50
Five squares, 1st 11.00 2d 6.00 3d 3.00 4th 3.00
Six squares, 1st 13.00 2d 7.00 3d 3.50 4th 3.50
Seven squares, 1st 15.00 2d 8.00 3d 4.00 4th 4.00
Eight squares, 1st 17.00 2d 9.00 3d 4.50 4th 4.50
Nine squares, 1st 19.00 2d 10.00 3d 5.00 4th 5.00
Ten squares, 1st 21.00 2d 11.00 3d 5.50 4th 5.50

Advertisements inserted according to special contract.

Business notices, without advertisement, twenty cents per line.

Funeral advertisements payable in advance all others due after the first insertion.

ADVERTISING IN THE BLOOMSBURG DEMOCRAT.
The office is in the building, corner of Main and Market Streets.

W. H. JACOBY.

Bloomsb'g, Columbia County, Pa.

[For the Democrat.]

Lyrics of the Susquehanna No. 12.

THE DEATH OF JAMES BRADY, CONCEALED.

By RAYNE.

As soon as the tidings went down to the fort,
The captain detailed a sufficient escort,
To bring the young soldier down from above,
And lead him to hasten, but cautiously move.

The cars of young Brady caught every sound, Though suffering extremely through every wound.

He heard them coming, and arose to his feet,
Determined the foe once more he would meet.

But when he discovered that friends were now near,
His heart swelled with joy, in his eye was a tear.

"O to Sunday take me, my mother is there, Once more from her lips let me hear
the sweet prayer."

They tenderly bore him away from the place,
With sorrow depicted on every face, Through difficult windings they wended their way,
And ended their journey at the end of the day.

The pen cannot picture, nor language declare,
The grief of the Mother, her cries of despair.

She called God to witness the deed that was done,
And punish the Indians who murdered
her son.

His mind in delirium wandered afar,
He thought that his Father and Brothers were near.

The scenes of his childhood were clear to
his view,
Before either suffering or trouble he knew.

But reason returning, he lived to relate,
The scenes of his bloody and terrible fate,
God bless my poor mother, he fervently cried, Bid adieu to his friends and he peacefully died.

Stillborn, July 3, 1867.

A Royal Massachusetts Preacher

Elopes with a Girl of Sixteen.

The quiet village of North Adams, Mass., was thrown in the wildest excitement on Sunday last by the discovery that the Rev.
S. C. Merrill, the late pastor of the Methodist Church at that place, had eloped with a beautiful and interesting young lady named Houghton, leaving a wife and nine children.
It seems that both parties had been absent from the village since Wednesday last, but as the young lady had told her parents that she was going to visit a friend in the neighborhood, and Mr. Merrill had lately been appointed to another charge, rendering his absence from home necessary a considerable portion of the time, no suspicions were aroused until Sunday, when the failure of either party to appear, taken in connection with the remembrance that there had been some former scandal in relation to them, suggested that there must be something wrong. Accordingly, on Monday morning, the friends of the young lady came to this city, and found that on Wednesday night last Mr. Merrill had put up at the Troy Hotel, registering his name as S. A.
Merritt, of New York, and that on Thursday night he had stopped at the American.
From this it appears that the young lady
did not reach Troy until Friday, tarrying here only for a short time, and leaving for the West on the same day. During Thursday Mr. Merrill made one or two attempts to borrow money, and was refused, $30 being the sum that he desired. Whether he finally succeeded in "raising the wind" he did not learn, but a report received from Utica yesterday, states that he had stopped in that city and was again trying to borrow money. He procured a ticket on the Central Railroad from a conductor on the Troy and Boston Road, with whom he was enquainted, telling him that he did not know whether he would go to Utica or further west, and would pay for it when he returned.
The brother and brother-in-law of Miss Houghton were in the city this morning and intended giving the reverend villain pursuit and a warm greeting when they overtake him. The young lady is but sixteen years of age, and in addition to being one of the most beautiful and accomplished young ladies of North Adams, is most respectably connected. Mr. Merrill is well known throughout the Troy Conference as a preacher of remarkable eloquence and power,
and has occupied some of the most important stations within its limits.

DECAY OF PUBLIC VIRTUE.

With all their advancement, and intellectual progress and enlightenment, there is unquestionably a growing tendency among civilized people to gratify their material appetites immediately. The more one has the greater is his temptation to spend. The man of limited income, acquiring wealth suddenly, exchanges frugal for extravagant habits, and rarely refrains from entering upon the new and many avenues of material enjoyment opened to him. One luxury begets the longing for another, and from being temperate, abstemious, well to do citizens, he too frequently becomes a "fast" man of the world, spending his money in selfish gratifications, and corrupting society by his influence and example. This is especially true of our own country, where the poor man of to-day may be the millionaire of to-morrow, where the absence of all caste distinctions found upon family, afford full play for mammon. The very material success of civilized nations may, therefore, constitute a source of their weakness and decay, as was the case with Pagan nations.
Napoleon prides himself upon having bro't France to a high state of prosperity and enjoyment. If we are to believe a Paris journal, however, this pretended prosperity and bliss under his enchanting appearances, the
"but too certain germs of dissolution, ruin and death."

To-day France is threatened, says Opin Nationale, with a rapid depopulation in consequence of the relative "unfruitfulness" of lawful marriages, the excessive mortality among infants, and a great number of persons remaining in a state of celibacy.

While the rulers of France have almost
"exclusively encouraged" the gratification
of material wants, the people, it declares, have formed luxurious habits which have led to these national evils or crimes selected. It then proceeds to draw the following graphic picture of French society as it now exists, threatening to encompass the ruin of the people.

"Always to talk of money, wealth and public prosperity, represented by millions and tens of millions, to display high and low fortunes most scandalously-acquired,
to show instantly the power of the god-money; to put in second place, literature, art and science, which ought always to occupy the first, to hold morality—we mean the great and the good—in slight esteem, and hold it up for ridicule more often than to admiration, such has been for half a century the work of many people, who have at last succeeded in bringing France into the state in which she now finds herself.

"To talk of patriotism, of civic virtues,
of devotion, or alas, even of liberty, to all those men who meet on the Exchange, to those merchants or stock holders who wish to arrive at fortune by any means, to all young men who only frequent women of doubtful reputation, horses and gambling-houses—most of them will not understand this language is totally unknown to them, the others will laugh at you, and take you for a man who has escaped from Charle-ton (Belgium), or at least, that you ought to be sent there as quickly as possible.

"Luxury, such as we see now-a-days, is adulterated, corrupt and lying. It is simply wild vanity, ridiculous pride, the desire to shine and eclipse others.

"Mon-sieur has his horses and his mistressess; Madame must have her jewels, the most expensive and outrageous dresses; the home is deserted, the modesty of the mother of a family in an empty word; the fidelity of a wife * * * dies! Everybody lies, every body is deceived, no one any longer knows what saving is, and all are really poor and miserably in debt as much as when they have a hundred thousand a year, as when they have twelve hundred (francs) a year.

"Unfortunately the present luxury does not admit of saving; every body has quite trouble enough to make both ends meet.— Now, children cost money, and a great deal of money; the education of boys and the portions of girls absorb large sums. In well regulated families they think of this in good time, now-a-days it is found much more convenient not to have children, or scarcely any.
One is enough; two too much; three a real calamity."

Does not much of this apply equally as well to American society? In our fondness for everything Parisian, in our love of display, and shows, are we not in danger of attaining ultimately a condition calamitous?
These are questions certainly worthy of consideration and reflection in view of the growing tendencies of the day.—N. Y. Commercial Advertiser.

NO ACCOUNTING FOR TASTE.

The Philadelphia Press says it hopes the Southern States will send all Negro Representatives to Congress. This is candid to say the least. Forney has a right to prefer black men to white, but it is paying the white trash composing the Black Republican party in the South, a sorry compliment.—
"Every one to their taste," as the old woman said when she kissed the cow.

GOT THE "OUTS."

Abolitionism has got "out" of the confidence of the people—is "out" of hope of success, and will soon be as clear "out" of office as the public treasure it has robbed is "out" of money.

A Singular Story.

The Milwaukee Sentinel vouches for the following remarkable incident:

"Near one of our grain warehouses situated on the river bank, large swarms of rats have been in the habit of feasting on the wheat which has been scattered around. A few days ago a terrific getting wind of the renditions, made an attack upon a couple suddenly, exchanges frugal for extravagant habits, and rarely refrains from entering upon the new and many avenues of material enjoyment opened to him. One luxury begets the longing for another, and from being temperate, abstemious, well to do citizens, he too frequently becomes a "fast"
man of the world, spending his money in selfish gratifications, and corrupting society
by his influence and example. This is especially true of our own country, where the
poor man of to-day may be the millionaire
of to-morrow, where the absence of all caste distinctions found upon family, afford full
play for mammon. The very material success of civilized nations may, therefore, constitute a source of their weakness and decay, as was the case with Pagan nations.
Napoleon prides himself upon having bro't France to a high state of prosperity and enjoyment. If we are to believe a Paris journal, however, this pretended prosperity and bliss under his enchanting appearances, the
"but too certain germs of dissolution, ruin
and death."

To-day France is threatened, says Opin Nationale, with a rapid depopulation in consequence of the relative "unfruitfulness"
of lawful marriages, the excessive mortality among infants, and a great number of persons remaining in a state of celibacy.

While the rulers of France have almost
"exclusively encouraged" the gratification
of material wants, the people, it declares,
have formed luxurious habits which have led to these national evils or crimes selected. It then proceeds to draw the following graphic picture of French society as
it now exists, threatening to encompass the ruin of the people.

"Always to talk of money, wealth and
public prosperity, represented by millions and tens of millions, to display high and
low fortunes most scandalously-acquired,
to show instantly the power of the god-money; to put in second place, literature, art
and science, which ought always to occupy
the first, to hold morality—we mean the
great and the good—in slight esteem, and
hold it up for ridicule more often than to admiration, such has been for half a century
the work of many people, who have at last succeeded in bringing France into the state in which she now finds herself.

"To talk of patriotism, of civic virtues,
of devotion, or alas, even of liberty, to all those men who meet on the Exchange, to those merchants or stock holders who wish
to arrive at fortune by any means, to all young men who only frequent women of doubtful reputation, horses and gambling-
houses—most of them will not understand
this language is totally unknown to them,
the others will laugh at you, and take you
for a man who has escaped from Charle-
ton (Belgium), or at least, that you ought to be sent there as quickly as possible.

"Luxury, such as we see now-a-days, is adulterated, corrupt and lying. It is simply wild vanity, ridiculous pride, the desire to shine and eclipse others.

"Mon-sieur has his horses and his mistress-
ess; Madame must have her jewels, the most expensive and outrageous dresses; the home
is deserted, the modesty of the mother of a family in an empty word; the fidelity of a wife * * * dies! Everybody lies, every body is deceived, no one any longer
knows what saving is, and all are really
poor and miserably in debt as much as when they have a hundred thousand a year, as when they have twelve hundred (francs) a year.

"Unfortunately the present luxury does not admit of saving; every body has quite
trouble enough to make both ends meet.— Now, children cost money, and a great deal of money; the education of boys and the
portions of girls absorb large sums. In well regulated families they think of this in good time, now-a-days it is found much more convenient not to have children, or scarcely any.
One is enough; two too much; three a real
calamity."

Does not much of this apply equally as well to American society? In our fondness for everything Parisian, in our love of display, and shows, are we not in danger of attaining ultimately a condition calamitous?
These are questions certainly worthy of consideration and reflection in view of the growing tendencies of the day.—N. Y. Commercial Advertiser.

THE BLOOMSBURG DEMOCRAT.

IS PUBLISHED EVERY WEDNESDAY IN
BLOOMSBURG, PA., BY

WILLIAMSON H. JACOBY.

TERMS.—$2.00 in advance. If not paid within SIX MONTHS, 50 cents additional will be charged.
If the paper is discontinued until all arrearages
are paid except at the option of the editor.

RATES OF ADVERTISING.

ONE LINE CONSTITUTE A SQUARE.

One square of three insertions.....$1.00
Every subsequent insertion less than 12.....50

SPACES.

One square, 1st 3.00 2d 2.00 3d 1.00 4th 1.00
Two squares, 1st 5.00 2d 3.00 3d 1.50 4th 1.50
Three squares, 1st 7.00 2d 4.00 3d 2.00 4th 2.00
Four squares, 1st 9.00 2d 5.00 3d 2.50 4th 2.50
Five squares, 1st 11.00 2d 6.00 3d 3.00 4th 3.00
Six squares, 1st 13.00 2d 7.00 3d 3.50 4th 3.50
Seven squares, 1st 15.00 2d 8.00 3d 4.00 4th 4.00
Eight squares, 1st 17.00 2d 9.00 3d 4.50 4th 4.50
Nine squares, 1st 19.00 2d 10.00 3d 5.00 4th 5.00
Ten squares, 1st 21.00 2d 11.00 3d 5.50 4th 5.50

Advertisements inserted according to special
contract.

Business notices, without advertisement, twenty
cents per line.

Funeral advertisements payable in advance all others due after the first insertion.

ADVERTISING IN THE BLOOMSBURG DEMOCRAT.
The office is in the building, corner of Main and Market Streets.

W. H. JACOBY.

Bloomsb'g, Columbia County, Pa.

[For the Democrat.]

Lyrics of the Susquehanna No. 12.

THE DEATH OF JAMES BRADY, CONCEALED.

By RAYNE.

As soon as the tidings went down to the fort,
The captain detailed a sufficient escort,
To bring the young soldier down from above,
And lead him to hasten, but cautiously move.

The cars of young Brady caught every sound, Though suffering extremely through
every wound.

He heard them coming, and arose to his feet,
Determined the foe once more he would meet.

But when he discovered that friends were
now near,
His heart swelled with joy, in his eye was
a tear.

"O to Sunday take me, my mother is there, Once more from her lips let me hear
the sweet prayer."

They tenderly bore him away from the place,
With sorrow depicted on every face,
Through difficult windings they wended
their way,
And ended their journey at the end of
the day.

The pen cannot picture, nor language declare,
The grief of the Mother, her cries of
despair.

She called God to witness the deed that was
done,
And punish the Indians who murdered
her son.

His mind in delirium wandered afar,
He thought that his Father and Brothers
were near.

The scenes of his childhood were clear to
his view,
Before either suffering or trouble he knew.

But reason returning, he lived to relate,
The scenes of his bloody and terrible fate,
God bless my poor mother, he fervently cried, Bid adieu to his friends and he peacefully
died.

Stillborn, July 3, 1867.

A Royal Massachusetts Preacher

Elopes with a Girl of Sixteen.

The quiet village of North Adams, Mass.,
was thrown in the wildest excitement on Sunday last by the discovery that the Rev.
S. C. Merrill, the late pastor of the Methodist Church at that place, had eloped with
a beautiful and interesting young lady named Houghton, leaving a wife and nine children.
It seems that both parties had been absent
from the village since Wednesday last, but
as the young lady had told her parents that she was going to visit a friend in the neighborhood, and Mr. Merrill had lately been appointed to another charge, rendering his absence from home necessary a considerable portion of the time, no suspicions were aroused until Sunday, when the failure of
either party to appear, taken in connection with the remembrance that there had been
some former scandal in relation to them, suggested that there must be something wrong. Accordingly, on Monday morning, the friends of the young lady came to this city, and found that on Wednesday night
last Mr. Merrill had put up at the Troy Hotel, registering his name as S. A.
Merritt, of New York, and that on Thursday night he had stopped at the American.
From this it appears that the young lady
did not reach Troy until Friday, tarrying here only for a short time, and leaving for the West on the same day. During Thursday Mr. Merrill made one or two attempts to borrow money, and was refused, $30
being the sum that he desired. Whether he finally succeeded in "raising the wind"
he did not learn, but a report received from Utica yesterday, states that he had stopped
in that city and was again trying to borrow money. He procured a ticket on the Central Railroad from a conductor on the Troy
and Boston Road, with whom he was en-
quainted, telling him that he did not know whether he would go to Utica or further
west, and would pay for it when he returned.
The brother and brother-in-law of Miss Houghton were in the city this morning
and intended giving the reverend villain pursuit and a warm greeting when they overtake him. The young lady is but sixteen years of age, and in addition to being one of the most beautiful and accomplished young ladies of North Adams, is most respectably connected. Mr. Merrill is well known throughout the Troy Conference as a preacher of remarkable eloquence and power,
and has occupied some of the most important stations within its limits.

THE BLOOMSBURG DEMOCRAT.

IS PUBLISHED EVERY WEDNESDAY IN
BLOOMSBURG, PA., BY

WILLIAMSON H. JACOBY.